

The Written Remains Critique Group

Candidate's Writing Sample

Thank you for your interest in joining our critique group. We ask all applicants to the group to submit a short writing sample. We have found that reading a few pages of an applicant's project is the best way for us to assess the compatibility of an author's writing with the work our members are doing.

We will not critique your submission. If we decide not to accept you into the group, it is not a judgment of your writing but only an attempt to find new members who are the best fit with our existing group.

Please submit a sample that meets the following guidelines:

- Fiction: 10 pages of a scene or chapter from your book or a complete short story.
- Format the submission to 12 point, Times New Roman type, double-spaced, with page numbers. Place your name and email address in the header.
- Email your submission, along with your application and resume, to:
written_remains@comcast.net

We will get back to you as soon as possible. Thank you for considering our group.
